As an internationally leading ticket manufacturer nagels has played a pioneering role in the mass transit industry.

nagels tickets are used across the world by transit operators and municipalities alike, each with its own unique requirements.

Upon request from ACTOLL we produced single tickets pre-encoded with a sequential QR code that have become an easy and affordable alternative to RFID tickets. This resulted in a partnership with ACTOLL, that so far involves delivering more than 30 million tickets to about 21 clients in France.

The facts:

- Single, sequential QR Code tickets, are a cheaper alternative to existing mass transit ticketing solutions
- Our ACTOLL partnership makes nagels the expert for these tickets, resulting in us being the first recommended supplier to all their clients
- Conduent has now developed a new product called CB2D using the same technology with a sequential AZTEC QR Code
- nagels won the tender for the first installation of this new Conduent product in Grenoble (SEMITAG) for 2 million single tickets and 3 million folded tickets
- We are able to offer these QR tickets as single cards with banderols or as glued booklets, both in different sorting (10/25/50/100) and with optional security features
